Annual Street List

On the cover:

South Reading Common ca. 1834 by Wakefield artist Franklin Poole.

This is what you would have seen if you were standing near the present edge of the Lower Common near Salem Street and looking down Main Street. In the foreground are some hay scales and the unpainted Centre Schoolhouse. In the distance, on the west side of the street, can be seen Hale's Tavern and the tin factory owned by Burrage Yale (site of the YMCA / Artichokes), on the east side of the street you can see the steeple of the old Baptist Church. Just beyond the church, but mostly out of sight, are the chimneys for 306 Main Street and the brick building that now houses Zuzu's Café.

Franklin Poole, Born in 1808, was a house painter by profession, but was also a gifted artist dedicated to preserving the images of his town in small oil paintings. A remarkable man, Poole was at one time elected as a Representative to the General Court, and was at the forefront in the beginnings of many worthwhile town organizations, among them the South Reading Liberty Association (anti slavery) and the Wakefield Historical Society.

The painting on the cover is copyrighted to the Wakefield Historical Society. The nonprofit organization is working to raise funds to restore the paintings of Franklin Poole for future generations.
